Jury Convicts Jack Rhodes After Deliberating One Hour; Reiter on Trial.

Jack Rhodes, colored, was found guilty of robbery by a common pleas court jury after an hour's deliberation yesterday afternoon. Rhodes was represented by Attorney Ralph Carhart.

Having completed two of the three criminal cases assigned to it for the term, the jury today was trying Lawrence Reiter, charged with breaking and entering the Ernest Stoner filling station early in August. Several witnesses in this case had been examined at noon. W. Dexter Hazen is counsel for Reiter.

Clem Reiter is scheduled to be tried Friday on a similar charge in connection with the same attempted burglary.

Members of the jury which convicted Rhodes were Joseph Bower, R. L. Binkley, H. O. Tom, Kathryn O'Dowd, Mary Davis, J. E. Messenger, T. N. Foster, Myrtle Hastings, Sherman Noggle, Edward Spohn, M. R. Swisher, Fred J. Trice.

Citizens Forced from Homes by Insect Plague

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 24.—A plague of insects that look like grasshoppers and sound like crickets were busy munching carpets and clothing here today. Residents in some parts of the city have already been forced to abandon their homes.

The fire department was appealed to yesterday by distressed housewives when they found a cloud of insects as yet unidentified by local entomologists, had descended into the south end of the city from nearby dumps, and in one instance had completely destroyed the legs of a pair of trousers.

The fire department wasn't sure just how to handle the situation, so it superintended an attempt to burn the insects at the dumps. So far the results have been anything but encouraging.

In the meantime, thousands of other citizens were preparing to flee their homes if the pests could not be brought under control.

SET SECOND "AKRON" FLIGHT FOR TONIGHT

Another of Test Series Arranged Following Successful Maiden Voyage.

Captained from Page One. Los Angeles, and a survivor of the wreck of the Shenandoah, which occurred six years ago not far from the birthplace of the Akron.

Officials on board. Aboard were Charles F. Adams, secretary of the navy, Rear Admiral Moffett, David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics, and Paul W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation.

Shortly after 3:30 p. m. to the booming salute of 21 guns, the Akron weighed off. Two hundred thousand feet of rope, dotted with red and blue lights, hung from the ship and sounded the horns of a thousand automobiles.

The colors of the United States snapped in the breeze all, while from the control car was unfurled the secretary of the navy's pennant.

As the ship rose lazily to about 200 feet, the sun burst through the clouds, turning the cigar-shaped monster into burnished silver.

Shortly after 6 p. m. it appeared over Cleveland. Immediately, downtown streets were transformed into a human sea, as people rushed forth to look. Circling slowly about the 600-foot pinnacle of the terminal tower, the Akron skirted the shore of Lake Erie and headed south for Akron again.

At 6:15, in a blaze of lights, she was made snug in her dock, a successful flight recorded on the log.

The Akron, constructed at a cost of $5,375,000, must be flown a total of 75 hours before acceptance by the navy. She is the first dirigible built in the U. S. since after the ill-fated Shenandoah.

The Akron carried 500 pounds of food, and a dinner was served aboard of chicken, mashed potatoes, salad, bread and butter, coffee, ice cream and cake.

Feeble Mother Refuses Fake Alibi for Son

By United Press. ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 24.—Kate Keller, sweetheart of Fred Smith, one of the three convicted of killing and burning two couples near Ypsilanti recently, today awaited trial on charges of being an accessory to that crime.

The girl was released on $10,000 bond for trial in the October term of court.

Smith's mother—blind and feeble from mental agony following her son's conviction—was the sensation of the hearing yesterday when she appeared as a witness to testify that the girl begged her to lie to furnish her son an alibi.

"Fred will say he was home that night," Mrs. Smith said. "Kate told her, 'and you can save him.'"

"But I wouldn't say that for I wasn't true," Mrs. Smith testified.

Other witnesses testified that the girl was seen in company with the convicted murderers earlier on the night that the killing took place.

AMERICA MOVES TO HALT JAP INVASION

Stimson Joins League in Urging Cessation of Far East Hostilities.

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The weight of the American government has been thrown against further hostilities in Manchuria.

Secretary Stimson not only has urged a cessation of fighting between Chinese and Japanese troops, but has asked withdrawal "from the present situation of danger."

This action of the government presumably through the diplomatic representatives in Washington of the disputing nations, was made known in a note to the League of Nations expressing sympathy with its stand on the Manchurian situation.

The league, in a resolution, had called upon Japan to halt the advance of troops into the disputed territory. It asked that the United States take a similar position.

Replying yesterday to the resolution, the American secretary of state assured the league of the government's "wholehearted sympathy" with its stand.

"I have already urged cessation of hostilities and a withdrawal from the present situation of danger," he said, "and will continue earnestly to work for the restoration of peace."

Carlson, who fell weeping into the arms of his mother when the verdict was read, was carried from the courtroom. His companion was calm.

GREEN FLAYS SLASH IN STEEL SALARIES

Labor Head Levels Charge of Bad Faith Against Corporations.

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—A charge of bad faith and unsound policy was raised against the wage-cutting steel corporations today by organized labor.

While President Hoover and his advisers remained silent but seriously intent, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, took the initiative with a public assertion that the steel industry had broken its two-year-old pledge to the White House.

All federal economic experts are not agreed as to the final outcome. From one side have come predictions that the wage reduction will strengthen business, increase employment. In the other camp are expressions of regret and forecasts of a decreased buying power on the eve of a business recovery.

President Hoover himself has indicated his chief concern focuses upon the maintenance of American living standards, almost certain to be affected by a general wage lowering.

It was to the President's action, in November, 1922, of securing anti-wage-lowering pledges from industrial leaders that Green referred in his charge that the steel industry had violated its given word.

The labor chief maintained that the wage reducing corporations were the beneficiaries of a high protective tariff. This protection, he said, was granted upon the theory that it was necessary to uphold the American wage standard.

GIRL LOSES LIFE IN SAVING MOTHER

By The Associated Press. DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 24.—A 20-year-old girl who threw herself between her mother and stepfather as they quarreled in their home early today was shot and killed by the stepfather, who then made a futile effort to end his own life.

The girl, Rose Hohaggy, a stenographer, was killed instantly by Joseph Besnek, the stepfather, who was arrested as he fled from the house. He fired five shots at himself as he fled, none of the bullets striking him.

Besnek, who said he was estranged from his wife, admitted the shooting. He said he wanted to kill his wife because she drove him from their home. Mrs. Besnek said she had parted from her husband because he drank heavily.

H. A. Mason, 48, is in serious condition at City hospital, following an attempt to end his life today at 9:30 a. m. at his home in Kirkpatrick.

Mason, according to his family, had threatened to take his life on several occasions, being dependent over ill health and financial affairs.

This morning he took a .32 calibre revolver which he kept at the house to scare away truck patch thieves, and shot himself through the abdomen. The bullet probably will be removed this afternoon.

Mason is married and has two sons. He was regularly employed until two years ago when his health began to fail. His only work at present was serving as janitor of the Kirkpatrick M. E. church. He was brought to City hospital in the C. E. Curtis Co. ambulance.

Loose DANDRUFF?

Get rid of it overnight

Dermatologists tell us that many serious cases of dandruff and falling hair could have been prevented by simple, early treatments. If you have any evidence of dandruff, go after it with Listerine, the safe antiseptic. It has checked this humiliating condition for tens of thousands. You simply douse it on full strength and massage the scalp vigorously. Often you get results over night. Stubborn cases require more systematic treatment to see a real improvement. If infection is present on the surface of the skin, Listerine attacks it.

A powerful germicide, it kills bacteria in 15 seconds, the fastest killing time accurately recorded by science. Listerine helps to dissolve oily crusts and quickly removes them, as well as horny scales. And Listerine quickly relieves that burning, itching sensation. It soothes inflamed or irritated areas of the scalp. If scalp is excessively dry, a little olive oil may be used in connection with the Listerine shampoo, or independent of it. The oil aids in dissolving crusts and scales and keeps hair from drying out. Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Harding's First Grid Opponent Packs Plenty of Punch

COLUMBUS SOUTH TO PUT WELL-BALANCED "11" AGAINST LOCALS

Building Attack Not Centered Around Single Brilliant Ball Carrier.

By Bob Minkpatrick

JUST about how ferocious are these Columbus South High football players—the Bulldogs, they're called in Columbus—Harding High Presidents are called upon to face Friday night in the local's first gridiron encounter of the 1931 season? Will it be possible for Coach Deway Dwyer's proteges to maul the leading teeth of the Bulldog attack or will these same teeth slash and tear their way through the Harding defense for a victory over the Marion boys?

Well, in case anyone should ask you, tell them the South High Bulldogs are plenty vicious! Harley Pierce, South mentor, doesn't turn out a bunch of weaklings any season and this year his team appears slightly stronger than usual. Then when you have applied this little parcel of information, go right ahead and enlighten them to the fact that if Harding produces the brand of football of which it is capable, these same Bulldogs are going to find their prestige suddenly hitting the toboggan sometime after 3 p. m. on Friday, Sept. 25, 1931.

Have Strong Offense

LAST year South battered its way through a fairly successful season with an attack built largely around one young individual named Herb Bellman. This fall, Coach Pierce is without Bellman's services so he has built a more diversified offense, constructed around the entire backfield rather than around one crack ball carrier. South is not altogether lacking in individual brilliance but Harding will be faced with the problem of stopping four dependable corner runners rather than a single major act with three. Take your choice as to which is the tougher assignment. Either one is bad enough.

The capital city eleven will have one advantage over Harding in that it has already played one game this season, giving Pierce an opportunity to find some of the lineup's weak spots and bolster them for the Marion invasion. Harding will still be experimenting Friday for the strongest possible combination, something that does not bode particularly good for the Presidents. However, Bobby is more insistent on getting a powerful team together for the 75 C. O. league race than in stopping the non-league foe so he probably will not hesitate to make some experiments against South.

Probable Lineup

South will more than likely line up Friday night with Strauss and Miller at the flanks, Petes and Courtney at the tackles, Dornale and Frye at guards and Caine at center. In the backfield Coverdale will be at quarter, Jones and Hoppe at the halves and Logue at full.

Jimmy Milner, the colored flanker, promises to give Harding a good deal of trouble. He is fast and shifty and has been tearing things up in general at the wing post. Coverdale and Jones in the backfield will probably pack the greater share of the attack, ably assisted, however, by Logue and Hoppe.

Yep, the Blue-Gray Bulldogs are tough. It behooves Harding to flash some good football or else the Presidents will find themselves snowed under a deluge of touchdowns Friday. Something that should not, and I hope will not happen!

SENATORS NOSE OUT YANKEES IN OPENER OF CRUCIAL SERIES

Marberry, Brown, Hold McCarthymen in Check To Cop Game, 3-2.

By GAYLE TALBOT

Associated Press Sports Writer. Wait Johnson's Washington Senators inspired by the thought that these fat fortnightly pay checks will cease coming around after the current week, have won the opening round of their "money" series with the New York Yankees.

By nosing out the McCarthymen, 3 to 2, in the first of four games yesterday, the Senators increased their hold on second place in the American league to one game and a half. As a result, they will need to win only one of the three remaining games to beat out the Yankees for the coveted runner-up position.

Joyce Brown allowed the Yankees but five hits in the first seven innings, and Firpo Marberry blanked them completely in the last two.

In the only other scheduled games played in either major league the Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers divided a doubleheader. The Tigers took the first, 9 to 7, knocking Willie Hinding from the hill in the sixth inning, but the Indians came back to win the second, 6 to 2, behind Clint Brown's good pitching and gain an even break.

The highlight of the two contests was the hitting of Earl Averill, Cleveland centerfielder. Collecting four hits, two in each game, the Indian ace ran his total for the year to 208 and passed Lou Gehrig of the Yankees, erstwhile leader of the American league, who has 203 safeties.

The Boston Braves proved themselves better for the day than their home town rivals, the Red Sox, by taking a 4 to 3 decision in an exhibition game.

Even "Hosses" Help Provide for Needy

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Even the "hosses" were ready to do their bit for sweet charity today.

A seven-race program was on at Lincoln field and the gross receipts were for the unemployed workers, officials and track workers were asked to pay admission fees and receipts were expected to total around $25,000.

The Joliet Hotel club purse was the feature of the program. Eight two-year-olds were entered in the gallop over six furlongs for the $1,200 purse with Uncle Sam as the big favorite.

Good, bad and indifferent news emanated from the Big Ten cities today, the most important of which probably was the revelation that Eddie Risk of Purdue was back in shape and ready to blow up more ground for the enthusiastic Boilermakers.

Risk, who injured his ankle during the Chicago game last fall, jumped into the scrimmage and showed all his old time power and shiftness.

COACHES LABOR TO STRENGTHEN TEAMS

Oppressive Heat Curtails Heavy Drills in Mid-Western College Camps.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Middle-western football camps halted cooler weather today after many days of sunshine complaint.

As the coaches labored long hours to build up powerful combinations for the big football wars just around the corner, old man Sol seemed to get tougher and tougher in many camps it had been too hot to get much work done and the coaches were worried expression.

The heat was an oppressive yesterday at Notre Dame that Coach Harty "Hunk" Anderson choked the workouts.

Ohio State was another heat victim of note while the same complaint of hot weather has been heard from most of the other Big Ten and middlewestern camps.

Good, bad and indifferent news emanated from the Big Ten cities today, the most important of which probably was the revelation that Eddie Risk of Purdue was back in shape and ready to blow up more ground for the enthusiastic Boilermakers.

Television Is Forecast for Ohio "School of the Air"

By International News Service
COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 14.—Now that radio has picked the locks on the doors of thousands of school rooms throughout Ohio, B. H. "Uncle Ben" Darrow, radio teacher, is preparing for the time when television can be utilized in his Buckeye "School of the Air."

its eventual state of relative perfection, has arrived, Darrow said. The radio, however, will bring into the school room events of national and world-wide importance which will vastly improve the work accomplished by the teachers, he added.

Plans for making the Ohio air school the "world's biggest" school are now commanding Darrow's attention.

Already it has reached the stage of development where national educational authorities refer to it by declaring "Ohio's project in education by radio has graduated from the experimental state and now represents the most successful undertaking of its kind in the United States."

More than 350,000 school children are now enrolled in the Ohio School of the Air, and this number will be considerably increased in the present school year, Darrow predicted.

Four hundred Ohio cities and an equal number of municipalities in other states, have equipped their schools with radio systems to hear the Ohio program.

"How can you enlarge your program, and improve it, in the face of reduced expenditures ordered by the last legislature?" Darrow was asked.

"Only by calling upon the school's friends," he replied. "Many organizations and individuals are coming to our rescue."

Darrow said the school hopes to continue many of the features which gave widespread satisfaction last year.

MENTIONS GUTHRY AS OHIO TICKET HEAD

Republican Paper Says LaRue Democrat Would Take White's Job.

The possibility of L. S. Guthry of LaRue, state director of agriculture, becoming a candidate for governor to succeed Governor White is hinted in a recent issue of "The Week," official Ohio Republican organ.

The magazine pointed out that the Marion county man, and several other Democrats are said to be desirous of taking White's place in case he is to be candidate on the national ticket in 1932, according to the International News Service.

Guthry recently was thrown into the spotlight of state affairs by a controversy with Charles M. Beer of Ashland, O., state fair manager, over authority in matters pertaining to the state fair. The director of agriculture ousted Beer, who later was reinstated by Governor White.

Ohio Democrats have not mentioned Guthry as possible gubernatorial timber.

Guthry formerly represented Marion county in the state legislature.

New York led the states in consumption with a total of 1,511,097,000 and California was second with 1,335,566,000 gallons. Nevada was at the bottom of the list, its motorists having burned only 64,742,000 gallons for the year.

Seidel To Play
Victor Herbert
Number Friday

TOSCHA SEIDEL, famous concert violinist, has chosen a solo by Victor Herbert for one of his numbers in the Paganini program, to be heard at 9:00 p. m. Friday over the WABO-Columbia network.

His other selection will be in an equally melodious and lyrical style—the "Valse Sentimentale" by Schubert in an arrangement by Franko. Sam Lanin's orchestra will play a "Blue" melody based on "Blue Skies," "My Blue Heaven" and "Blue Is the Night."

John Froman, blues singer, will be heard with Paul Whitman's Paint Men at 9:00 p. m. Friday from the WBC Chicago station singing a melody which includes "Wrap Your Troubles in Dreams" and "Nevertheless I'm in Love with You." The Paint Men will play the stirring "Song of the Vagabonds," from Fritz's "Vagabond King."

Leo Reisman's orchestra will play such numbers as "It's in the Stars," from "Show the Works," "Sweet End Blues," "Soldier on the March," and "Hawaiian Memory," during the program at 8:30 p. m. Friday over an NBC network.

Rosario Bourdon's orchestra, Jessica Dragonette, and the Cavaliere will join in selections from the "Band Wagon," during the Service program at 7 p. m. Friday over an NBC network. The piano duo, Frank Smith and Milton Reinberg, will interpret a medley of popular tunes during the program.

Something new in reading material for country folks, both farmers and housewives, will be listed in "The Farm Business Library," by M. S. Eisenhower, during the National Farm and Home Hour at 12:30 p. m. Friday. Music will be furnished by an orchestra under the direction of Harry Kogen.

William Scott has selected a story by Edward Hope entitled "Nature Takes Its Course," for dramatic adaptation over the WABO-Columbia network during a program from 8 to 8:45 p. m. Friday.

Hope's narrative deals with problems of modern youth.

If You Get Up Nights
Try this 25c Test

Physic the bladder as you would the bowels. Drive out impurities and excessive acids that cause irritation, burning and frequent desire. Get a 25c test box of BURETTS, the bladder physic, from any drug store. After four days if you are not relieved of getting up night go back and get your money. BURETTS containing buckwheat, juniper oil, etc., acts pleasantly and effectively on the bladder similar to castor oil on bowels. If you are bothered with backache or leg pains caused by bladder disorders you are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep. Ungericht's Drug Store—Adv.

Flashes of Life

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON—Census figures show there are 72,942,534 persons in the country over 21 years old. The vote for President in 1928, the largest in the nation's history, was 57,785,000. In the child women of voting age exceed the number of men. Men outnumber women in suburban and farm communities.

PARIS—The French government has made a posthumous award to David Guggenheim in recognition of his gifts to French aviation. The insignia of the Legion of Honor has been presented to his widow. A large library of technical books on aviation in the Aero club was made possible by gifts from Mr. Guggenheim.

NEW YORK—Mrs. Elizabeth Dickey is suffering from "city feet." She has just returned with her husband from their sixth trip into the jungles of South America. She said her feet rebelled against the hard pavements after treading the soft Amazon trails. "Women are perfectly all right in the jungle," she said, "and the more feminine the better."

BALLYMORAN, Ireland—Katherine Plunket, who is 111, has won the Fortwess challenge bowl, a prize for her fruit and flower garden. This being the third year she has won it, the bowl is now hers.

The Stars Say—
For Friday, Sept. 25

AN interesting and fairly fortunate state of affairs is presented from the moderately fortuitous aspects between the ruling planets. There may be a beneficial change, involving the work, property or holdings, with much depending on individual initiative and skill in managing the affairs. It is a favorable time for making and renewing contracts, albeit there is loophole for fraud, misrepresentation or trickery working both ways. Private affairs may have a curious twist.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a fairly progressive and fortunate year, with a good change, increase of substance and opportunity for individual enterprise and demonstration of ability. There may be temptations, however, with avenues of fraud and misrepresentation or treachery. It is an auspicious time for making and renewing contracts, with precaution, however. Personal affairs may develop an unusual or mysterious turn or adventure.

Not So High Marion motorists who grumble because they are assessed a tax of four cents a gallon on gasoline should cheer up when they discover that the four-cent tax is a comparatively light one. A survey made by the American Automobile association shows that gasoline tax ranges as high as seven cents a gallon in the country, this figure being paid in Florida.

Fourteen other states, including Colorado, Indiana, Maine, Maryland, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Vermont, West Virginia, Wyoming and Wisconsin, pay the same amount of gasoline tax assessed Ohio motorists, the survey shows.

Five states pay two cents a gallon, 11 states pay three cents. Eleven others pay five cents, and five pay six cents. In Ohio, gasoline tax money can be spent only for road building and maintenance purposes. In some states, the tax collected from motorists go to pay for schools, state buildings and departments and other purposes, according to the survey.

Why Choose Slavery?

It is more than hard, it is next to impossible, to understand why any American employer or merchant should voluntarily give up the liberty, rights and privileges which he enjoys under our democratic form of government to cast his fortunes, even though but temporarily, with those of despotic soviet Russia.

Expression of this lack of comprehension is prompted at this time by a letter, which has just come to our attention, received by a correspondent of one of our leading industrial organizations from the Amtorg Trading Corporation, of New York City, the American commercial representative in this country of the soviet Russian government.

In its letter, the Amtorg corporation states that every worker engaged in this country by its clients in Russia must pay his own transportation as well as that of his family from this country to Moscow, and that no financial assistance in any form can be expected by him in this matter.

It is further set out that foreign workers are employed on the same conditions as those of the native workers in Russia. This means, the letter states, "that salary or wages are to be paid in U. S. $ currency without the privilege to remit any money abroad" and "that wages or salaries are being paid according to the qualification of the man in accordance with the unit scale existing in the U. S. & R."

Perhaps one of the most interesting phases of the letter to the American allied workman will be the disclosure regarding the housing conditions he will face in Russia. Foreign workers are provided with quarters of the same standard as native workers, which are thus specified: "One room for two or three single men; one room for husband and wife or husband, wife and one child, two rooms for a family having two children. The payment for living quarters, including commercial services such as water, heat and electricity, it is explained, is according to the rules and regulations of the particular community. 'In general,' it is set out, 'this expense amounts to between two and a half and eight per cent. of the earnings.'

Citing that every applicant for a position accepted by the Amtorg's clients in Russia must pass a physical examination to show that he is fit to work in his particular line, and that foreign workers accepting employment are obliged to obey all the laws of soviet Russia, as well as the rules and regulations of the industrial units they are working for and those of the communities in which they live, the letter reads: "We take the opportunity to emphasize here again that the U. S. & R. law does not allow any worker to send money abroad or to take out from the country any savings, neither in soviet currency, nor in foreign currency."

Coped up in cramped, cheerless rooms, compelled to obey not only the arbitrary laws of the despotism, but also those of the communities in which he resides and the units in which he works, compelled to struggle to get the necessary food to sustain life, subject to being moved at any time to any place in the vast Russian domain, denied the right to send or take his savings, if he is able to accumulate any savings, out of the country, why should any engineer or other worker surrender the freedom he enjoys in the United States to take employment under a Russian organization of firm and live in slavery?

We've lost a lot of respect for the Gandhi mentality. The idea of not knowing of a weird figure like Charlie Chaplin.

Editorial Opinion.

W. LAVAL IN AMERICA.

Personal diplomacy publicly conducted—the world's new method of grappling with international politics—is about to be invoked again, with Washington as the scene of operations. President Hoover has invited M. Pierre Laval, premier of France, to visit the United States and confer on problems of mutual interest to those countries and to the disordered universe at large. It is not difficult to guess the motive which inspired the President's invitation or the major topics to be discussed when Messrs. Hoover and Laval get together.

Gold moratorium and disarmament are certain to complete the theme song of their conference. Closely interrelated of themselves, it is practically France and the United States which have it in their power, at this moment, to lead the way in the unraveling of all the questions gold and disarmament connote. The French and American peoples between them possess three-quarters of all the monetary gold in existence, clothing them with immeasurable power in the swaying of human destinies at a time when all mankind is clamoring for economic salvation. Any extension of the "Hoover year" of holiday intergovernmental debt payments depends first and last on Franco-American accord. Between them, too, France and the United States, because of their military strength and wealth, are in primary position to set the nations an example in the direction of curtailed armaments.

This country rejoices to learn from Paris that M. Laval is enthusiastic over the prospect of a heart-to-heart talk with the President of the United States, and that the premier believes an interview of such a nature would aid in solution of world problems. The leader of the French government may come confidently upon a cordial welcome at Washington and at the hands of all our people. We retain an abiding understanding of the problems, especially that of security, which must remain paramount in the minds and policies of French statesmen when asked to consider remapping either the psychology or boundaries of Europe.

Dispatches speak of the possibility that M. Laval may present himself at the White House as early as next month. That he would consent to detach himself from governmental preoccupations in France at so critical an hour is evidence of the importance the premier attaches to the journey. He will have undertaken it on the heels of his visit with the heads of the German government at Berlin. There can hardly be any doubt that there is a certain valuated coincidence of plans in the circumstance that the projected conference at Washington should dovetail so closely into the conversations to be held this week between Messrs. Laval and Brand and Messrs. Brüning and Curtius.

At Washington, as at other world capitals, there is complete recognition of the necessity of a Franco-German rapprochement before the disarmament problem can be tackled with any hope of practical solution. Mr. Hoover told the International chamber of commerce here in May last he looks upon mounting armaments, and the refusal of the military and naval powers to check their growth, as the fundamental cause of economic chaos. With disarmament the question of reparations is not wholly disconnected, for the French fear a Germany relieved of war damage obligations would put the money into weapons of revenge. There will be no lack of material for the Hoover-Laval agenda.—Washington Star.

Pastboard Kings.

Ely Culbertson, the contract bridge expert, is back from Russia with a story about playing cards that illustrates a method of public education rather neatly.

Mr. Culbertson, it seems, had a scheme to double the sale of playing cards among the Russians, but the official in charge of such matters squelched it quickly. It was his job to cut down the sale of playing cards, not try to increase it. Why? Because there are kings and queens in the deck—suggestions of royalty. The government had tried to sell decks without kings and queens, but the people wouldn't buy them. So playing cards were taboo until further notice.

This is an example, and a good one, of negative propaganda that turns back on its source with an unfavorable effect, because it is too obvious to be deceiving. If the meaningless suggestion of pastboard kings and their consorts in a deck of playing cards actually worries soviet Russia, that republic either is tilting at windmills or is waging a meaningless, desperate feud.

Testimony was offered before the state senate highway investigating committee, Wednesday, to the effect that the state had paid $7,500, to say nothing of $1,100 as rental, for a structure in Troy which was dilapidated and "practically worthless" for use as a diversion garage. If the charge is established, we will have another light on the high cost of highway construction and maintenance.

KEEP THIS FINGER OUT OF THE PIE.

Neglect of the Eyes.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

One of the fine organizations intended to relieve human suffering, is known as the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Under its auspices is issued a publication, "The Sight-Saving Review."

This magazine seeks to call the attention of its readers to the necessity of an organized campaign against disease of the eye. This is of vital importance to the public welfare. For sixteen years the present organization has done great work in the prevention of blindness.

Such efforts should receive the support of every citizen. Nationwide recognition of the scope and aim of this society will contribute greatly to the reduction of blindness. The truth of this statement lies in the fact that from fifty to seventy per cent. of all blindness can be prevented.

Not so long ago, a disease known as "ophthalmia neonatorum," an inflammation of the eyes in newborn babies, caused thirty per cent. of all blindness among children. This disease is preventable and efforts to avoid it have been remarkably successful. In 1930 only nine and five-tenths per cent. of all blindness in children was due to this terrible affliction.

Such diseases as diphtheria, measles and smallpox used to result in many cases of blindness. Because of better understanding of these conditions and their control, there has been a marked reduction in blindness due to infectious diseases.

Of course, there are many diseases of the eye which, if neglected, produce blindness. I can not overstate the need of early and continued treatment of any disease of the organ of vision.

The longer you neglect any ailment of the eye, the longer it will take to cure. Many conditions, if neglected too long, become incurable and result in permanent blindness.

Your eyes are of vital value to you. Do not neglect these precious organs. Consult with your doctor, who will send you to a specialist if necessary.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

MRS. H. Q.—What foods are particularly rich in the minerals which go to increase the growth of the hair?

A.—Eat of a well balanced diet and the entire system will show the results. Fruits and vegetables are rich in mineral salts, among which is sulphur, particularly helpful for the hair.

M. Q.—What will tend to thin the blood? Are pimples due to thick blood? What can be done in this case?

A.—If there is a blood condition which needs correction you should see your doctor. Pimples and such blemishes are due to impurities in the blood. Proper diet and care will usually bring about general improvement in this case. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

DOTTIE Q.—Would discolored tonsils be apt to cause yawning and sneezing?

A.—My tonsils appear to be covered with little white growths—is this a sign they are diseased? Should they be removed?

A.—They may, although a catarrhal condition may be causing the trouble. Be sure to clear up any tendency to the latter first of all. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Yes, they are probably diseased. Have your doctor advise you as to the necessary treatment. If they are infected they should be removed.

Andrea Vesalius.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Boldness and initiative are two qualities of the highest importance and value in science. Tradition and authority have often retarded the progress of science for centuries. The fear of exciting ridicule, the dread of disputing some generally accepted authority, have doubtless prevented many a scientist from announcing a discovery or advancing a theory which ran counter to universally accepted opinion.

Andrea Vesalius was one of the great scientists of history who refused to be tyrannized over by the authority of his predecessors. He formed the idea as to the right procedure for studying the human body. He disregarded the practice of the ancients, and showed that the methods of Hippocrates and Galen, for example, were almost entirely worthless. In advocating complete abandonment of the old conceptions in anatomy, he aroused a storm of protest from the authorities. The "Church," meaning of course the Roman Catholic church, was finally appealed to, to settle the violent controversy. After careful consideration and hearing both sides of the case fully presented, the "Church" decided that, since anatomy is useful to men, dissection may be allowed.

Andrea Vesalius was born in Brussels, Belgium, in 1514. He came of a family line of surgeons originating in the town of Vesali, whence originated his name. After a comprehensive education at Louvain, Cologne, Paris and Padua, Vesalius at the surprisingly early age of eighteen returned to his alma mater and became lecturer in anatomy. In the course of a few years he held the post of professor of surgery and anatomy at Padua, Bologna and Pisa. About 1544 he was appointed to the position of chief physician to King Charles V and later to King Philip II of Spain and had his residence in Madrid.

In 1559 Vesalius published an atlas of six anatomical plates, and four years later he brought out his epochal work, "Seven Books on the Anatomy of the Human Body." Making a sharp break with the practices and opinions of Galen and the ancients, Vesalius demonstrated the inaccuracy of Galen's descriptions, which were of the lower animals, and not of man. He was a masterly anatomist and an admirable lecturer. He wrote a number of other works on medicine, surgery and anatomy, which were brought out in a collected edition at Leyden in 1625. Vesalius is generally rated as the pioneer of comparative anatomy and of race craniology.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Ohio's Underground Railways.

BY J. H. GLENN.

Ohio was not the only state through which, during the long years of slavery in the South, slaves were smuggled to freedom beyond the boundary of the lowly animal, and not of man. It was a masterly anatomist and an admirable lecturer. He wrote a number of other works on medicine, surgery and anatomy, which were brought out in a collected edition at Leyden in 1625. Vesalius is generally rated as the pioneer of comparative anatomy and of race craniology.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Ohio's "underground railway" work was carried on here as in no other state. Because safety enjoyed secrecy on the part of those engaged in the work, records of the operations did not exist, and facts could only be secured from those who personally knew of it and could be induced to talk before they could be traced. Probably no one has delved deeper into this feature of slave time history in our state, and has more reputable information, than Professor W. H. Stebbins, of the Ohio State University, who lectured and wrote extensively on the subject.

Professor Stebbins found that the mileage of the fugitive slave routes in Ohio from the river to the lake aggregated from 2,800 to 3,000 miles. With the exception of the counties in the extreme northwestern part of the state, which for obvious reasons were excluded, practically every county in the state had one or more routes through it.

Trumbull county, always strongly abolition, led all the rest with a network of "underground railway" within its boundaries. Other that ranked well up with Trumbull were Richland, Huron, Belmont, Ashland, Jefferson, Lorain and Mahoning. The work of the operators was of course voluntary and without compensation. There could be only such discipline as all recognized as necessary to their mutual safety and the success of the enterprise.

Some lines worked continuously and had made slaves in progress toward the Canadian border all the time, other operated in a desultory manner, but in the aggregate the transportation was extensive. Some of the more active and enthusiastic kept count of the slaves handled by them. One, Levi Coffin, a Cincinnati Quaker, claimed to have helped 2,000 slaves to freedom in this way. Professor Stebbins had the estimates ranging at from 40,000 to 80,000 slaves thus helped to freedom by the operation of the underground railways in this state.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, Sept. 24.—The most complete record of the World War and perhaps the most voluminous historical edition ever published has just been turned over to the New York Historical Society. It is in 400 volumes, comprising more than 30,000 clippings from that many newspapers over the world.

The completion is the result of effort of a modest and comparatively obscure historian, named Otto Spengler. He spent three years at work on the record in a dingy basement on lower Third avenue. It is estimated the cost in labor and time was around $75,000.

During spare time, night and day, Spengler, pursued papers for what he calls "a human's nature of posterity." At various times ten assistants were paid out of his own pocket to assist him. After he finished his job he set about for capital to have them bound.

For months he appealed in person and by letter to various philanthropists. But seldom received the country's reply. About a year ago he received word that the building in which the clippings were stored was to be torn down. He had only a few weeks to make disposition of his collection or they would be carted to a city dump and burned. Finally a letter to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., directed him to the Historical Society and after investigation Rockefeller furnished $80,000 for the binding.

The only provision was that the completed work should become the property of the Historical Society. The binding was done in black cloth and the compiler—as a reward for his long and painstaking task—has been made a life member of the Historical Society.

My interest in Otto Spengler—whom I never met—dates back to early days in the big city. He was then as now a self-effacing humanitarian. So far as I know the first time my name ever appeared in a New York newspaper, a clipping in a cheap yellow envelope was sent to me by him.

Overheard between two luncheon flappers in the Colony reception room. First: "I didn't think you'd appear after the plans of your last night." Second: "It wasn't the only one planned. You were swacked to the hango your self."

Wherever Homer Crox roams he registers from Marysville, Missouri. And there are many illustrious who do not forget their birth place in globe-traveling. On the hotel register in Indianapolis, Indiana, once the name above mine was "C. M. Schwab, Loreto, Pennsylvania." Singular Lewis in European hotels places "Sanku Center, Wisconsin," after his name and prints within thirty days ago. Tommy Millard, who has spent most of his life in Shanghai and other far away places all ways registers at the Laramie in New York from Phelps county, Missouri. And H. T. Webster exhibits the same pride in his native town—hark, Wisconsin.

Up to date 234 letters, post-cards and ringed clippings have poured in about a reference in this column to the white meat of a duck at La Tour d'Auvergne in Paris. There is no white meat to a duck. Anyway it is a little bit of meat. It might as well be a white meat. But in any event, hooters have shriveled me to considerable proportions. Just now sitting on a dime I could not make my toes touch the floor.

O, yes, a postcard from Hollywood contains breathless tidings that "boasting a bling" means giving a party. Yet the saddest news from cineland was in a letter from a director. In a film he is now shooting are two former stars of the silent screen serving as extras. But charitably disguised so no one will recognize them. You'd be surprised, who they are, too.

Another Lou Hole story is of the Broadway, new, told by the doctor after his release from Bellevue that he would have to quit drinking for good. "As it is," said the doctor, "baw hooze has taken the coat entirely off your stomach."

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT FLUMMER.

Washington, Sept. 24.—In those seemingly endless corridors of the old state, war and navy building on Pennsylvania avenue, across the street from the White House are twice displayed the pictures of two men.

They are the only men accorded such distinction.

One is Elihu Root and the other is Henry L. Stimson.

Both have been secretaries of war. Both have been secretaries of state. And, oddly enough, both are former members of the same New York law firm.

Th portrait of Root as secretary of state is vastly different in appearance from that of Root, secretary of war.

Alfred C. has place among the former heads of the state department in the big blue and black reception room, or on corridor walls where the collection is displayed.

Stimson's, too, will be placed there when he retires from the cabinet.

The portrait of Stimson, done in the day when he was secretary of war, probably draws more comment from visitors than that of any other of the war secretaries.

It is in the ornate reception room of Secretary Hurley's office, right opposite the entrance door. Guides point out the portrait to visitors. For it is the only portrait of a war secretary showing him clad in riding togs.

It is a slender, younger snapper looking Stimson than the present-day dean of the Hoover cabinet.

Just why Stimson elected to have his portrait painted wearing riding togs is not clearly clear.

The story is told that he was moved to be painted that way by the reported circumstance that President Roosevelt first met him when riding through Rock Creek park and was impressed by the dashing manner in which Stimson forced his mount through the trees and up a steep bank to meet the chief executive.

Nowadays the secretary of state finds it necessary to work rather hard at keeping his figure at something near the slender slenderness of those former times.

He still rides. Two or three times a week he may be observed on the brick paths of Rock Creek park and other sections of the capital. But he is not as reckless as he was in the days of his Roosevelt.

And he is still a crack tennis player. Whenever he finds time he slips off to the courts on the White House grounds behind the mansion for a few vigorous sets.

He was a member of the Roosevelt "tennis cabinet" and has never lost his love for the game.

The Exception.

Nearly every one has protested against the new duck hunting season except the Ontario World-Herald.

"I want to tell you - that red-blood cells are the very foundation of sturdy health"

—worth knowing:

—let's pause a moment to give those vital red cells the consideration they deserve. They mean so much for better health and happiness.

It is not fair to expect one to like work or to enjoy play with a "low-red" blood count.

So often the reason is simple—that good body of ours has "run-down" under the strain of our way of living... pressure of work and worry.

If this is your trouble, why not take steps to overcome it—remembering that a "tired feeling" may be a warning... so are pimples, boils and eczemas. A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease. A lagging appetite often leads to underweight and ill health.

You cannot be low in strength and be happy—let's be happy.

For generations S.S.S., as a tonic, has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

Treachery

PEAK could not answer Sam's question of how poverty had affected her.

"Well," said Sam, "the result has been that I've always been a charity patient. I've been forced to accept invitation after invitation to go to give me clothes! It's a wonder that I've fallen into a very definite classification!"

"And what?" Peak inquired slowly, "do you consider your classification?"

"I'm a sponge," said Sam emphatically. "A large, squishy, high-absorbent sponge."

"Not!" said Peak. "Nothing but silly pride."

She nodded. "It also explains why I've been so happy since Fourth made that money."

"Yes," he nodded, and then frowned. "I see that, but if money was your only worry, why weren't you happy to see as you said I got ourselves engaged?"

She stamped her foot. "Oh, can't you see that money from you would be just more of the same? More charity? Can't you understand that this money of Fourth's is honestly earned, is honestly mine?"

"Yes," said Peak calmly. He had himself under complete control once more. The madman had gone. "I admit, though, that I had hoped the change in you was due to something else."

Sam's eyes wandered from his. "You mean that you hoped I'd come to care more about you. Well, I have come to care more about you—a lot more."

He did not move. "But you can't say that you love me? Is that it?" She was silent.

"You kissed me, Sam," he reminded her gently. "It wasn't just an ordinary kiss. It meant something. What did it mean?"

"I—I don't know."

"I—I don't want to love me, Sam!"

"Yes, I want to love you, I want to love you—terribly! But—"

"But, what?"

"But I don't see how I can." Her eyes were wide. "It's impossible, Peak," she said in a small tired voice.

He instantly knew what she meant. She meant that it was impossible for her to love him because of Freddy Munson. Freddy Munson stood in the way. Freddy's presence suddenly filled the entire summer house, and Peak resented it. He resented it so deeply that he said something he was bitterly to regret.

"Impossible!" The words were cold. "Why is it impossible, unless there is somebody else. There isn't anybody else, is there, Sam?"

Sam said nothing. Her wide eyes merely became wider and wider and then suddenly filled with tears.

After an interval of silence Peak shuddered and shook his head as though emerging from a bad dream. Then he said roughly: "Don't pay any attention to me. I must be crazy. Come on, let's get out of here. It's cold."

They went out into the wind. The moon had disappeared, and with it the pleasant dim light. As Peak had said, it was cold.

On the way home, and Sam was immediately, there was silence. Both were busy with thoughts that were anything but pleasant.

Peak, putting away at a cigarette, surveyed the ruin of his carefully laid plans. In one unaccountable moment he had destroyed all the framework of confidence he had built so carefully.

No more would Sam regard him as an understanding friend and companion. No longer would he be at ease and off guard in his presence.

He had slammed the little side door by which he had hoped to find his way to her heart. He wondered whether there were any other such doors or whether Freddy Munson had locked them all. He wondered what Sam was thinking of him at the moment.

As a matter of fact, Sam was not thinking of him at all, although a phrase he had spoken was drumming in her brain. "Is there somebody else?" Peak had asked. "There isn't anybody else, is there, Sam?"

Was there anybody else? Sam could have cried aloud in very real pain for she was realizing all at once that in the weeks that had just passed the thought of Freddy Munson had slipped further and further and further into the background of her consciousness. She had thrust it there deliberately at first in what she had been sure was a hopeless effort to forget.

The thing seemed impossible, and yet to a certain degree it had happened.

In the excitement of Fourth's sudden windfall of her newly discovered interest in people and things, she had allowed herself to drift. There had been periods of days, she told herself remorsefully, when she had not thought of Freddy at all. Even now it was difficult to bring to mind a clear-cut vision of his face.

The more she thought of the matter the more clear became the fact of her shallowness and treachery. She had half forgotten when she should have remembered. She had been happy when she should have been miserable. As a sort of crowning touch she had kissed Peak Abbot that very night. She had not kissed him, as Peak himself had suggested, through any sense of duty, but simply because she had responded to a very definite urge.

What did that kiss mean? What did anything mean?

When they reached the stable she said good night to Peak hurriedly, absently, and ran across the gravel to the front door.

There was a single light burning on a little table in the living room and beside it lay a telegram. She picked the yellow form from its envelope, and glanced casually at the typewritten words. Then, suddenly, she stiffened.

The telegram had been sent from Calonge, and the two words at the bottom of the message read: "Freddy Munson."

To Be Continued.

A line that was green last fall, but accounted by a year's experience, will carry V. M. L's hope to the gridiron this year.
